"Dollar dominance is going to be the opportunity of Ethereum," he said, adding this will be because of "everything becoming…tokenized."

He warned against loosening traditional corporate rules for crypto treasuries, noting they protect against "volatility arbitrage shells disguised as leveraged Bitcoin plays" that led to the recent retail losses.

With the rise of AI, charts that integrate onchain data, such as wallet activity and total value locked (TVL), are becoming increasingly popular. These advanced charts give traders deeper insights into evolving market dynamics.

The crypto community also remains divided regarding the Tempo blockchain and whether a payments-focused, dedicated stablecoin blockchain network is even needed.

may be down 4.3% in October so far, but optimism around the month's historically bullish trend remains intact. Since 2019, Bitcoin's average October gain has been near 20%, with a median return of about 15%. While this year's performance currently lags, market participants are looking to macroeconomic policy shifts for potential fuel.

In general, both retail and institutional investors continue to focus on buying and holding tokens for price gains rather than staking them. Operating validator nodes requires substantial capital, technical know-how and uninterrupted uptime. It also exposes participants to risks such as slashing penalties and custody challenges. Additionally, in many jurisdictions, the regulatory treatment of staking rewards remains unclear.
