Mikol's token DARE pumped over 4,000% from a $43,000 market cap to $1.91 million, according to DEX Screener, but he was receiving treatment in the hospital and was unable to sell his stash. This stunt also took place before creator fees were added to the platform. The dev claims to have made no money from the token, aside from the $3,000 donated to him to help pay for hospital bills.

While we abstract it away in our discussions, this final step, the violence, is the basic quantum of all regulation. And as long as governments have armies, and developers and hackers do not, those who believe code is law will be unable to enforce their priors on the rest of us.

When shorter-term EMAs trade above longer-term ones like this, traders see it as a good sign. This configuration suggests money is positioned bullishly across multiple timeframes, from swing traders watching the 50-day to long-term holders focusing on the 200-day. Watch the candlesticks on weekly timeframes, and the gap between both averages is also bullish, and increasing over time.

Bagwork is a Pump.fun meme coin launched by a pair of unnamed youngsters, who livestream goofy stunts to try and pump the price. On Wednesday, one of the devs ran onto the field during a Los Angeles Dodgers baseball game, and hours after the Martyn incident, the other dev shaved their head on-stream. They say they'll be streaming every day for the next two weeks, attempting to create viral moments every day.
