Improving energy efficiency does seem to be the way forward to achieving decarbonisation and more for the shipping industry. Nor-Shipping 2025 had a heavy focus on decarbonisation and alternative fuels along with an undertone of geopolitical shifts and trade disruptions. However, pragmatists would have also noticed that the transition to cleaner fuels is taking longer than some anticipated and efficiency measures are getting more attention. Low-hanging fruits and trade disruptions. are available today, and Jotun is showing it is committed to doing its part to future-proof the industry. Jotun, the global leader in marine coatings, is proud to be announced as the latest member of RightShips Zero Harm Innovation Partners Program. Jotun brings nearly a century of expertise in protecting vessels and infrastructure - combining science, technology, and sustainability to advance safer, cleaner, and more efficient maritime operations. Investments in electrification have created a growing market for batteries for electric vehicles and energy storage systems. To help manufacturers improve battery life, safety and manufacturing efficiency, Jotun has introduced powder coatings systems engineered to meet different challenges. Jotun, the global leader of hull performance solutions and marine coatings, has entered into a commercial agreement with the world's leading owner and operator of LPG vessels, BW LPG, to optimize hull performance solutions (HPS) from year 2025 through to 2028. The agreement was signed during a ceremony that took place on 3 June 2025 at Nor-Shipping, Norway. Jotun, the global leader in marine coatings, has published a new report based on a survey among 1000 ship owners and operators, uncovering trends in biofouling management strategies exploring the impacts of biofouling in shipping. The report reveals that many owners and operators have faced the consequences of inadequate biofouling management through regulatory penalties or refused port access. Jotun, the global leader in marine coatings, announces the launch of the next generation of its recognised Hull Performance Solutions (HPS). The Norwegian paints and coatings manufacturer recorded a total operating revenue of NOK 11 376 million in the first four months of 2025. This was up 4 per cent from the same period last year. Earnings ended at NOK 2 442 million, which was an increase of 2 per cent. Jotun, the global leader in marine coatings, is excited to continue its legacy and long-lasting presence at Nor-Shipping. Between June 3rd and June 6th at this years Nor-Shipping, Jotun will launch new innovations that will enable a cleaner shipping industry. A brand-new global report on the industrys biofouling management and the consequences will also be presented. A trend towards more use of data-driven, digital vessel performance systems is gathering pace in the shipping industry. This was one of the main takeaways from the 10th HullPIC conference last month. Collaboration between stakeholders, continuous innovation, and knowledge sharing were also emphasised as critical drivers for advancing performance management and sustainability efforts. To ensure quantifiable numbers on how much CO emissions Jotun coated vessel have avoided thanks to its coatings in 2024, DNV Maritime Advisory has performed a technical evaluation. With 11.1 million tons avoided CO for its customers in 2024, the effect of Jotuns Hull performance is proven and stands as a testament to Jotuns Clean shipping commitment. Jotun, a leading provider of high-performance hull coatings and solutions for the global maritime industry, has entered into a commercial agreement with Singapore/Thailand-based shipowner Thoresen Shipping Singapore Pte. Ltd. for the adoption of Jotun Hull Skating Solutions (HSS), a revolutionary proactive cleaning solution to advance on hull performance and vessel efficiency.
