I'm not a robot

The excitement around the sixth series of The Masked Singer UK on ITV continues unabated with audiences eager to deduce who lurks behind the costumes of the latest cavalcade of characters. Already four well-known figures have been revealed. Spag Bol was none other than Good Morning Britain's Kate Garraway, while Pegasus turned out to be television chef and Bake Off judge Prue Leith during the show's first installment. The revelations didn't stop there, however, with 'I Try' singer Macy Gray and T'Pau's Carol Decker being unmasked as Toad in the Hole and Tattoo, respectively. Now, only eight secretive personas remain. As we anticipate their inaugural group performance on Saturday (January 25), let's revisit all the hints and fan theories that have surfaced until now, reports the Mirror. Bear has showcased dynamic vocal range spanning musical theatre and rap(Image: ITV)) Week 1 saw a rendition of 'You've Got to Pick a Pocket or Two' from Oliver! followed by a change in tune to 'Miami' by Will Smith for Week 2, showcasing Bear's dynamic vocal range spanning musical theatre and rap. Hints heavily laden with stage and West End innuendos point towards someone with a significant theatrical background. Additionally, football and comedy are topics woven into their visual teasers. Speculations are rampant, throwing up names like Patrick Stewart, Tom Davis, David Harewood, Example, Doc Brown, and Richard Blackwood into the speculation on Good Morning Britain on Tuesday (January 21), stating: "That's how I'd do it if I was to do it."The EastEnders star also hinted that Bear's charismatic "swagger" might be the reason he's a suspect, adding that the costume is "it's hot" but hastily clarified with a cheeky "So I've heard." Could he be bluffing? Viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice (Image: ITV) Songs performed: Week 1: 'Wake Up!' by The Boo RadleysWeek 2: 'Hold My Hand' by Jess GlynneBush has mentioned being happy when surrounded by friends and enjoys "stage managing". Some fans think celebrity gardener Charlie Dimmock is the person behind the plant-themed costume. Despite the judges suggesting Catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon, viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like Natalie Cassidy to me!" Another agreed, "I think Bush is Natalie Cassidy. Sounds like her and she did gardening videos on YouTube, that's the only clue I can get to fit!" Is the EastEnders star hiding behind the green exterior? Dressed Crab has impressed audiences with their singing talents (Image: ITV)) Songs performed: Week 1: 'Lean on Me' by Bill WithersWeek 2: 'Let's Groove' by Earth, Wind and FireThe fashionable crustacean has impressed audiences with their singing talents on The Masked Singer stage. Clues have pointed to a sports connection, as Dressed Crab admitted they dislike being "beaten" because "there's too much at stake". The character also mentioned that their work has "lit up" the UK. Speculation surrounds the identities of these contestants, with fans eager to uncover who's behind the elaborate costumes. Dressed Crab towers over host Joel Dommett, who stands at 5ft 11 inches, indicating that the celebrity behind the mask is quite tall. Fans have since speculated that it could be former NFL player and Brooklyn 99 actor Terry Crews. "Terry Crews played in the NFL, the crab is absolutely massive and it also sounds exactly like Terry Crews," one viewer shared on X.Several other performers are also being considered, with The Weeknd, Jamie Foxx, Billy Porter and Gregory Porter mentioned by the judges. Kingfisher has been charming us with their soothing voice(Image: ITV)Songs performed:Week 1: 'The Rainbow Connection' from The Muppet MovieWeek 2: 'Iris' by The Goo Goo DollsOver the past few weeks, Kingfisher has been charming us with their soothing voice. They "enjoy" the great outdoors, have won awards and have showcased their "chorus from time to time".Harry Hill was one of the first names suggested, as his voice bears a striking resemblance to Kingfisher's. However, one of the clues featured the name 'Harry' on a tag attached to a wagon wheel. Would the show be so bold as to include the celebrity's name in the VT?Other suggestions include Paul Whitehouse, Alan Titchmarsh, Chris Packham and Bob Mortimer. Fans have also taken to Reddit to assert they "knew" who the celebrity was, despite the clues not aligning: "Whilst the clues don't add up, if you listen to Simon Farnaby!" Pufferfish's standout vocals point towards the entertainment industry (Image: ITV) Songs performed: Week 1: 'Good Luck, Babe!' by Chappell RoanWeek 2's performance of 'Girls Just Want to Have Fun' by Cyndi Lauper has left many convinced that Pufferfish, with their standout vocals, must hail from the entertainment industry. The clues suggest that this star has rubbed shoulders with some "fantastic" celebrities, is quick on the uptake, and is definitely not a "no one-hit wonder". Despite guesses from the judges that include American celebrities like Hayden Panettiere, Gwen Stefani, Nicole Richie, and Lea Michele, the accent may be misleading - Pufferfish might just be a local talent. Musical theatre enthusiasts are "100% sure" Samantha Barks is the one singing beneath the Pufferfish disguise. Her signature voice seems to fit Pufferfish's range perfectly, and the hints seem to confirm their suspicions. One eagle-eyed fan exclaimed on X, "Finally got Pufferfish - it's Samantha Barks!" They pointed out her connections to Anita Dobson (Angie Watts) in a film and another titled Jack and the Cuckoo-Clock Heart. Plus, they noted the boots match the colour she wore on I'd Do Anything. Barks is known for her extraordinary performances. Is it possible that the West End sensation is the face behind Pufferfish's mask? Judging by her vocal prowess, we might have to wait a bit longer to uncover the truth. Several Bridgerton-esque clues have hinted at Snail's identity (Image: ITV) Snail has serenaded us with: Week 1: 'Espresso' by Sabrina CarpenterWeek 2: 'Rule the World' by Take ThatSnail stands out as the most majestic character left in the competition, with several Bridgerton-esque clue packages hinting at their identity. This character has led a "sheltered" existence but has nonetheless made a significant impact. Additionally, Snail has teased the audience with talk of revealing "scandalous secrets". Bridgerton fans are speculating wildly, with Kathryn Drysdale of the Madame Delacroix fame being a hot tip among viewers. Yet, it was Snail's performance on January 18 that stirred the pot when an Irish lilt unexpectedly came through. On X, one viewer asserted "#Maskedsinger snail definitely sounded Irish!" leading to a flurry of guesses pointing towards Nadine Coyle, Nicola Coughlan, and Andrea Corr. Could Snail indeed hail from the Emerald Isle? Teeth's identity remains elusive with questions surfacing about their gender (Image: ITV) Songs performed: Week 1: '(Is This The Way To) Amarillo' by Tony ChristieWeek 2: 'Houdini' by Dua LipaShrouded in mystery, Teeth's identity remains elusive with questions surfacing about their gender. Teeth has owned up to being a "big mouth" and flaunted references to "gold", with the panel veering towards footballer guesses like Alex Scott and Jimmy Bullard, courtesy of Davina McCall and Mo Gilligan. Yet, audiences seem to think there's a comedic angle to explore. Online rumblings have pinned names such as Alan Carr, Rob Beckett, James Buckley, and even Jedward to Teeth, but the buzzing confusion hit its peak after their latest showing hinted at a feminine sound. Over the weekend, confounded fans expressed on X, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is 100% Melanie Giedroyc."The jury is still out. Could they have cracked the case? Some particularly observant fans are betting that Wolf is actually Marti Pellow(Image: ITV)) In week one, Wolf treated everyone to David Bowie's 'Let's Dance'. Week 2's performance of 'Copacabana (At the Copa)' by Barry Manilow brought some serious star power to the stage, with Wolf delivering a howlingly good show, complete with husky - no pun intended - vocals. According to the hints dropped, Wolf has embarked on a solo journey, describing his initial steps as an "opening gambit" that's leading him in the right direction. He's hinted at a connection to a "soap opera" and seems eager to prove he's "top of the food chain". The panel and audience are quite convinced that Wolf is a seasoned professional, throwing around names like Jason Donovan, Brendon Urie, Tony Hadley, and Gary Kemp as potential identities behind the mask. However, some particularly observant fans are betting that Wolf is actually Marti Pellow of Wet Wet fame. One confident fan declared on Reddit: "It is definitely him. I got the same feeling when Morten Harket did TMS a few years ago, I knew immediately," while another concurred, stating: "100% Marti Pellow. The most obvious in the history of the show." Could Wolf be hiding an 80s music legend or perhaps an Aussie soap star? We'll have to wait and see. The Masked Singer UK is available to watch on ITVX Published: 20:35 BST, 18 January 2025 The Masked Singer UK has finally revealed the identity of Tattoo leaving fans shocked. During Saturday's episode Tattoo, Teeth, Kingfisher, Dress Crab, and Snail all took to the stage, dropping more hints about their identities. The judges eagerly pieced together the clues, trying to figure out who might be behind the masks. The studio audience then narrowed it down to two characters - Tattoo and Dressed Crab - who went head-to-head in a sing-off, leaving the remaining three contestants safe for another week. Dressed Crab performed Drift Away by Dobie Gray, while Tattoo sang Proud Mary by Tina Turner. The judges then chose to save Dressed Crab, meaning Tattoo's time on the show had come to an end. The Masked Singer UK has finally revealed the identity of Tattoo leaving fans shocked The judges eagerly pieced together the clues, finally unmasked themselves, revealing none other than 80s pop icon Carol Decker!Carol is best known as the lead vocalist of the pop band T'Pau, which had international success in the late 1980s and early 1990s. Fans quickly took to X, formerly Twitter, to share their reactions to the big reveal. They said: 'I had kym marsh / carol decker so i'm half good at this. 'Carol Decker wow that was amazing,' I would never have said Carol Decker! Fans quickly took to X, formerly Twitter, to share their reactions to the big reveal Carol is best known as the lead vocalist of the pop band T'Pau, which had international success in the late 1980s and early 1990s (pictured in 2013)So far there have been a number of celebrities who have been a numbe person behind the Giant Joel costume. Viewers are still trying to figure out who Bear, Bush, Dressed Crab, Kingfisher, Pufferfish, Snail, Tattoo, Teeth and Wolf are. It comes after Macy Gray snubbed both post-show interviews for The Masked Singer after her elimination, it has been revealed. The US soul singer, 57, was the latest star to be unmasked on the ITV show on Saturday when she was revealed to be the Toad In The Hole. However, before Macy's identity was revealed, she walked off the stage when host Joel Dommett announced the sad news that she had to go home. After her chaotic unmasking, Macy refused to respond to ITV's post-show guestions sent to each contestant upon elimination, according to The Mirror. A source said: 'It is normal for the celebs to answer some questions for a Q&A sent out by ITV but Macy didn't do it. 'This is only second time in history of the show this has happened so it shows how unhappy she was after the show. 'The Masked Singer airs on Saturday on ITV1 and is available to stream on ITVX. The Masked Singer UK's latest series is captivating audiences with a brand new assembly of disguised celebrities, as fans engage in rampant speculation over who might be behind the masks. In an exciting start to the season, four famous faces have already been revealed. Good Morning Britain presenter Kate Garraway and celebrity chef Prue Leith were the first to leave the show, unveiled in episode one as Spag Bol and Pegasus, respectively. They were soon followed by 90s hitmaker Macy Gray and T'Pau's frontwoman Carol Decker, who were masquerading as Toad in the Hole and Tattoo. Now, only eight secret identities remain as viewers eagerly await the group performance on Saturday (January 25). Here's a compiled list of clues and theories for each character has entertained with a versatile vocal range (Image: ITV)) This character has entertained with a versatile vocal range covering songs from musical theatre to rap, signifies someone comfortable with the extremes of these genres. Clues so far have included several nods to stage and West End endeavours, hinting at Bear's potentially star-studded background in theatre. Additionally, little teasers involving football and comedy have crept into their video tales. Names thrown into the guessing pool include Patrick Stewart, Tom Davis, David Harewood, Example, Doc Brown and Richard Blackwood. On Good Morning Britain this Tuesday (January 21), Blackwood intriguingly addressed the speculation, playing coy with his words: "That's how I'd do it if I was to do it." The star of EastEnders has given viewers a good nudge, suggesting that Bear's undeniable "swagger" might be the very reason he's been pinpointed as a contestant on the show. He also gave a hint about the heat inside the costume, quipping: "It's so hot. So I've heard." But could this be a crafty misdirection? Bush has brought a smile to fans' faces with performances of 'Wake Up!' by The Boo Radleys in Week 1 and Jess Glynne's 'Hold My Hand' in Week 2.Described as enjoying happiness amongst friends and demonstrating a knack for "stage managing," some have connected the dots to celebrity gardener Charlie Dimmock. However, Catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon have all been tossed into the mix by the judges as possible theories for who's behind Bush. Fans beg to differ, convinced they can pinpoint the familiar voice masked by foliage, with social media users confidently proposing, "Bush sounds like her and she did gardening videos on YouTube, that's the only clue I can get to fit!"Could the famous face from Albert Square really be masquerading as Bush?Dressed Crab has been serving up a sartorially smart performance, delivering soulful renditions of 'Lean on Me' by Bill Withers and Earth, Wind and Fire's 'Let's Groove'. Clues allude to a competitive spirit, being "beaten" isn't an option for this crustacean because "there's too much at stake". Seemingly, their work has had a dazzling effect across the UK, causing audiences and panellists alike to wonder who could be lighting up the stage underneath the Dressed Crab attire. The towering Dressed Crab, who stands significantly taller than 5ft 11 inches host Joel Dommett, has led fans to speculate that the celebrity behind the mask could be former NFL player and Brooklyn 99 star, Terry Crews. One viewer noted on X: "Terry Crews played in the NFL, the crab is absolutely massive and it also sounds exactly like Terry Crews." The judges have also thrown a few other names into the mix, including The Weeknd, Jamie Foxx, Billy Porter and Gregory Porter. Kingfisher has been charming audiences with their soothing vocals over the past weeks. They've hinted at a love for the great outdoors, an award-winning career and a penchant for showcasing their "chorus from time to time". Harry Hill was one of the first names suggested due to the striking similarity between his voice and Kingfisher's. However, a clue featuring the name 'Harry' on a tag attached to a wagon wheel has left some wondering if the show would be so bold as to include the celebrity's actual name in the video. Other guesses include Paul Whitehouse, Alan Titchmarsh, Chris Packham and Bob Mortimer. Despite the clues don't add up, if you listen to Simon Farnaby's voice, and then Kingfisher's, it's so obvious that it's Simon Farnaby!"Pufferfish is quickly becoming known as one of the most talented vocalists (Image: ITV) Pufferfish sang 'Good Luck, Babe!' by Chappell Roan in week one. In the second week of The Masked Singer UK, the star performed 'Girls Just Want to Have Fun' by Cyndi Lauper. Pufferfish is quickly becoming known as one of the most talented vocalists the show has seen, suggesting a background in the entertainment industry. The cryptic hints suggest that this celebrity has rubbed shoulders with some "fantastic" personalities, is quick on the uptake, and is certainly "no one-hit wonder". While the panel has thrown out names of various American celebrities such as Hayden Panettiere, Gwen Stefani, Nicole Richie, and Lea Michele, the accent may be a red herring - Pufferfish might hail from much closer to home. Musical theatre enthusiasts are convinced that Samantha Barks is the voice behind Pufferfish. Her signature singing style seems to align perfectly with Pufferfish's range, and the clues seem to fit. One eagle-eyed viewer exclaimed on social media: "Finally got Pufferfish - it's Samantha Barks!" They pointed out her connections to Anita Dobson and the film Jack and the Cuckoo-Clock Heart, as well as a visual clue linked to her appearance on I'd Do Anything. Her reputation as a sensational performer only adds to the speculation. Is it possible that the West End sensation is masquerading as Pufferfish? Judging by the voice, it might take some time before the reveal. Snail has serenaded the audience with 'Espresso' by Sabrina Carpenter in week one and 'Rule the World' by Take That in week two. This character exudes a regal air, with several clues hinting at a Bridgerton-esque backstory. Snail's narrative suggests a "sheltered" existence but nonetheless leaving a significant impression. There have also been teases about unveiling "scandalous secrets". The guessing game continues as fans of The Masked Singer speculate over Madame Delacroix star Kathryn Drysdale, linking her to Snail. Speculation intensified after Snail's performance on January 18, where a noticeable Irish accent had viewers taking to social media to voice their theories. One viewer tweeted, "#Maskedsinger snail definitely sounded Irish!" prompting names like Nadine Coyle, Nicola Coughlan, and Andrea Corr to enter the mix. Could Snail be a talent hailing from Ireland? Teeth has been baffling audiences with their ambiguous gender and cryptic clues (Image: ITV) Meanwhile, Teeth has been baffling audiences with their ambiguous gender and cryptic clues (Image: ITV). Scott and Jimmy Bullard, the public seems to think a comedian might be behind the mask. Alan Carr, Rob Beckett, James Buckley, and even Jedward have been tossed into the ring of possibilities. After a recent performance that leaned more feminine, fans are perplexed, with one suggesting, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," and another guessing, "Teeth is 100% Melanie Giedroyc." Is there any truth to these guesses? Wolf has captivated the audience with David Bowie's 'Let's Dance' in week one, leaving everyone eager for more clues. Week 2's performance of 'Copacabana (At the Copa)' by Barry Manilow brought the house down, with Wolf captivating the audience with their robust - and aptly describing his "opening gambit" as a step in the right direction. He's hinted at a connection to a "soap opera" and has ambitions to be "top of the food chain". The panel and viewers alike are convinced that Wolf is a seasoned entertainer, throwing around names such as Jason Donovan, Brendon Urie, Tony Hadley, and Gary Kemp as potential identities. However, some particularly observant fans are wagering that Wolf is actually Marti Pellow of Wet Wet Wet fame. One confident fan declared on Reddit: "It is definitely him. I got the same feeling when Morten Harket did TMS a few years ago, I knew immediately," while another concurred: "100% Marti Pellow. The most obvious in the history of the show." Could Wolf be an 80s music legend or perhaps an Aussie soap star? We'll have to wait and see. The Masked Singer UK is available to watch on ITVX The Masked Singer fans believe they have uncovered the true identity of Pufferfish, with many claiming they are "100% sure" they have cracked the clues. The ITV show has returned for its sixth series, featuring a host of celebrities disguised in elaborate costumes as they try to fool both the panel and viewers at home. WATCH: The Masked Singer Pufferfish revealed? So far, the show has revealed Good Morning Britain's Kate Garraway as Spag Bol, Great British Bake Off judge Prue Leith as Pegasus, and music stars Macy Gray and Carol Decker as Toad in the Hole and Tattoo. With eight characters still in the competition, including Bear Bush, Dressed Crab, Kingfisher, Pufferfish, Snail, Teeth, and Wolf, speculation is running high—particularly around Pufferfish is buzzing with theories, and one fan on Reddit is convinced they have figured it out. The viewer wrote: "Pufferfish is Samantha Barks," referring to the West End star known for her role as Eponine in Les Misérables. You may also like They explained their reasoning: "Firstly, the voice is very similar. Watch her Britain's Got Talent performance of 'Let It Go' and you'll see what I mean—she even got on her knees while performing, just like Pufferfish did in last week' show. "They added: "I've seen Pufferfish live in the studio, and she has an incredibly tiny waist despite wearing a corset. Samantha Barks © ITVSome of the judges think that Pufferfish is Gwen Stefani Viewers have been dissecting the clue packages, and many believe there are clear hints pointing to Samantha. One theory links Pufferfish's reference to Anita Dobson, with Pufferfish frequently referencing Italy. Fans also noted a potential link to the talent show I'd Do Anything where Samantha gained recognition, pointing out that Pufferfish's boots match the colour of a dress she wore on the show. What the judges think © ITVWho could Pufferfish be on The Masked Singer? So far, the panel—including Rita Ora, Jonathan Ross, Davina McCall, and Mo Gilligan—have put forward their own guesses. They have suggested US stars such as Hayden Panettiere, Gwen Stefani, Nicole Richie, and Lea Michele. However, many fans believe the American accent used by Pufferfish's performances © ITVTeeth sang Dua Lipa's Houdini on The Masked Singer Pufferfish first took to the stage on 5 January, performing Chappell Roan's hit 'Good Luck, Babe'. The following week, they delivered a lively rendition of Cyndi Lauper's Girls 'Just Want to Have Fun', impressing the audience and judges alike. Despite the panel's guesses, fans remain convinced they have nailed Pufferfish's identity. As the competition heats up, Pufferfish will need to continue impressing both the judges and viewers to avoid elimination. With more performances and clues to come, fans will have to wait and see if their predictions prove correct. The Masked Singer continues to entertain audiences with its blend of mystery and music, keeping everyone guessing until the final unmasking. The Masked Singer airs Saturdays on ITV1 and is available to stream on ITVX. The Masked Singer comes to an end tonight - with the identities of three remaining stars being revealed in the 2025 final. After eight thrilling weeks, finalists Dressed Crab, Pufferfish and Wolf will perform for the final time tonight on ITV1, while panellists Jonathan Ross, Davina McCall, Mo Gilligan and Maya Jama are given one last guess at the famous faces on stage. However, many fans at home are convinced that they have already rumbled the real A-listers behind the masked musical star thanks to the many hints and clues shared to the panel throughout the series. With not long to go before we found out which stars are behind the series six costumes, here are the top clues and theories around Wolf, Dressed Crab and Pufferfish. Fans of The Masked Singer are convinced they know who Wolf is (Image: ITV) Wolf has proved that he's a top dog when it comes to his singing abilities, performing the likes of Let's Dance by David Bowie, Birds of a Feather by Billie Eilish and Crowded House hit Don't Dream It's Over. He's also dropped a number of clues about his identity, with his VT packages featuring colourful umbrellas, a book of bedtime stories, a map of Egypt, a spy glass and wool Meanwhile, the star has referred to himself as a "lone wolf", reminiscing about having a long career with a group of people. In one scene, a cameraman filming Wolf was shown to be wearing a mitre - the traditional headwear worn by bishops - which could hint at a connection to the church. Wolf also revealed that high school was wear he "sniffed out Pellow since I heard the first few lines sung weeks ago. Never once been mentioned by the panel, then tonight when Maya said ABBA, I give up. "Meanwhile, other guesses have included Location L Tennant. Pufferfish is back for her final performance and she's finalThis fashionable fish is taking to the Masked Singer stage tonight for her final performance and she's let slip a number of big hints throughout the competition. Pufferfish has teased that she loves having her picture taken, said that "The Empire State is just too hard to miss out on and caught an American football in her VT. She is also seen throwing a pair of dice that land on a five and six, and revealed that she is not a "one-hit wonder", that she's "filled with glee" and has a five-year work diary. She also shared in one clue package: "It's a miracle I'm still here. The angel fish must be looking down on me. "There have also been references to the "Windy City" of Chicago, being a "pop princess", Coronation Street's Helen Worth and a toy mouse. As for fans' top theories, many viewers believe that it's West End star Samantha Barks behind the Pufferfish - although the theatre icon recently took to social media to deny that she's the sea-dwelling singer. Other popular guesses have been Coronation Street's Jodie Prenger, reality star Nicole Richie and US actress Hayden Panettiere. Dressed Crab is one of the finalists on The Masked Singer. tonight as viewers get to the bottom of which celeb is behind the crooning crustacean. Over the last few weeks, we've heard that Dressed Crab's work has "lit up the UK" and that he "just keeps coming back". He also revealed that they are a "composer" who works "with a little faith" and says that "it's no contest when it comes to style". Their clue packages have also featured references to an American football helmet, a non-disclosure agreement, burnt clothes, a taxi receipt for £6.61, a case with the word "Idris" written on it and a sign that said "don't ring after 9pm". Many viewers have shared their theories on social media, with some convinced that US singer Gregory Porter is Dressed Crab. "@MaskedSingerUK crab - sounds so much like Gregory Porter!"Other popular guesses include singer Michael Kiwanuka, actor Jamie Foxx, Grammy winner Billy Porter and Chic co-founder Nile Rodgers. Like this story? For more of the latest showbiz news and gossip, follow Mirror Celebs on TikTok, Snapchat, Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, YouTube and Threads. ITV The Masked Singer returns to our screen tonight and viewers are convinced they've cracked the identities of the latest latest procession of characters. Four well-known figures have already been revealed. Spag Bol turned out to be none other than Good Morning Britain's Kate Garraway while television chef and Bake Off judge Prue Leith was behind Pegasus. The revelations didn't stop there, however. 'I Try' singer Macy Grey was unmasked as Toad in the Hole while T'Pau's Carol Decker was found out to be Tattoo. Now, only eight secretive personas remain. As we anticipate their inaugural group performance on Saturday (January 25), let's revisit all the hints and fan theories that have surfaced until now, reports the Mirror. Bear has showcased dynamic vocal range spanning musical theatre and rap(Image: ITV)Week 1 saw a rendition of 'You've Got to Pick a Pocket or Two' from Oliver! followed by a change in tune to 'Miami' by Will Smith for West End innuendos point towards someone with a significant theatrical background. Additionally, football and comedy are topics woven into their visual teasers. Speculations are rampant, throwing up names like Patrick Stewart, Tom Davis, David Harewood, Example, Doc Brown, and Richard Blackwood into the speculative fray. Blackwood himself added mystery to the mix, responding ambiguously to the speculation on Good Morning Britain on Tuesday (January 21), stating: "That's how I'd do it if I was to do it."The EastEnders star also hinted that Bear's charismatic "swagger" might be the reason he's a suspect, adding that the costume is "it's hot" but hastily clarified with a cheeky "So I've heard." Could he be bluffing?Viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice(Image: ITV)Songs performed:Week 1: 'Wake Up!' by The Boo RadleysWeek 2: 'Hold My Hand' by Jess GlynneBush has mentioned being happy when surrounded by friends and enjoys "stage managing". Some fans think celebrity gardener Charlie Dimmock is the person behind the plant-themed costume. Despite the judges suggesting Catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon, viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like her and she did gardening catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon, viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like her and she did gardening catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon, viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like her and she did gardening catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon, viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like her and she did gardening catherine O'Hara, Billie Piper, and Stacey Solomon, viewers seem convinced that they know who Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like Natalie Cassidy to me!" Another agreed, "I think Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like Natalie Cassidy to me!" Another agreed, "I think Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented, "Bush sounds like Natalie Cassidy to me!" Another agreed, "I think Bush is just from their voice. One X user commented is a supplication of the properties of the prop videos on YouTube, that's the only clue I can get to fit!" Is the EastEnders star hiding behind the green exterior? Dressed audiences with their singing talents (Image: ITV) Songs performed: Week 1: 'Lean on Me' by Bill Withers Week 2: 'Let's Groove' by Earth, Wind and FireThe fashionable crustacean has impressed audiences with their singing talents on The Masked Singer stage. Clues have pointed to a sports connection, as Dressed Crab admitted they dislike being "beaten" because "there's too much at stake". The character also mentioned that their work has "lit up" the UK. Speculation surrounds the identities of these contestants, with fans eager to uncover who's behind their elaborate costumes. Dressed Crab towers over host Joel Dommett, who stands at 5ft 11 inches, indicating that the celebrity behind the mask is quite tall. Fans have since speculated that it could be former NFL player and Brooklyn 99 actor Terry Crews played in the NFL, the crab is absolutely massive and it also sounds exactly like Terry Crews," one viewer shared on X.Several other performers are also being considered, with The Weeknd, Jamie Foxx, Billy Porter and Gregory Porter mentioned by the judges. Kingfisher has been charming us with their soothing voice(Image: ITV)Songs performed: Week 1: 'The Rainbow Connection' from The Muppet MovieWeek 2: 'Iris' by The Goo Goo DollsOver the past few weeks, Kingfisher has been charming us with their soothing voice. They "enjoy" the great outdoors, have won awards and have showcased their "chorus from time to time". However, one of the clues featured the name 'Harry' on a tag attached to a wagon wheel. Would the show be so bold as to include the celebrity's name in the VT?Other suggestions include Paul Whitehouse, Alan Titchmarsh, Chris Packham and Bob Mortimer. Fans have also taken to Reddit to assert they "knew" who the celebrity was, despite the clues not aligning: "Whilst the clues don't add up. if you listen to Simon Farnaby's voice, and then Kingfisher's, it's so obvious that it's Simon Farnaby!"Pufferfish's standout vocals point towards the entertainment industry(Image: ITV)Songs performed:Week 1: 'Good Luck, Babe!' by Chappell RoanWeek 2's performance of 'Girls Just Want to Have Fun' by Cyndi Lauper has left many convinced that Pufferfish, with their standout vocals, must hail from the entertainment industry. The clues suggest that this star has rubbed shoulders with some "fantastic" celebrities, is quick on the uptake, and is definitely not a "no one-hit wonder". Despite quesses from the judges that include American celebrities, is quick on the uptake, and is definitely not a "no one-hit wonder". Despite quesses from the judges that include American celebrities like Hayden Panettiere, Gwen Stefani, Nicole Richie, and Lea Michele, the accent may be misleading - Pufferfish might just be a local talent. Musical theatre enthusiasts are "100% sure" Samantha Barks is the one singing beneath the Pufferfish disguise. Her signature voice seems to fit Pufferfish's range perfectly, and the hints seem to confirm their suspicions. One eagle-eyed fan exclaimed on X, "Finally got Pufferfish - it's Samantha Barks!" They pointed out her connections to Anita Dobson (Angie Watts) in a film and another titled Jack and the Cuckoo-Clock Heart. Plus, they noted the boots match the west End sensation is the face behind Pufferfish's mask? Judging by her vocal prowess, we might have to wait a bit longer to uncover the truth. Several Bridgerton-esque clues have hinted at Snail's identity (Image: ITV) Snail has serenaded us with: Week 1: 'Espresso' by Sabrina CarpenterWeek 2: 'Rule the World' by Take ThatSnail stands out as the most majestic character left in the competition, with several Bridgerton-esque clue packages hinting at their identity. This character has led a "sheltered" existence but has nonetheless made a significant impact. Additionally, with Kathryn Drysdale of the Madame Delacroix fame being a hot tip among viewers. Yet, it was Snail's performance on January 18 that stirred the pot when an Irish lilt unexpectedly came through. On X, one viewer asserted "#Maskedsinger snail definitely sounded Irish!" leading to a flurry of guesses pointing towards Nadine Coyle, Nicola Coughlan, and Andrea Corr. Could Snail indeed hail from the Emerald Isle? Teeth's identity remains elusive with questions surfacing about their gender. Teeth has owned up to being a "big mouth" and flaunted references to "gold", with the panel veering towards footballer guesses like Alex Scott and Jimmy Bullard, courtesy of Davina McCall and Mo Gilligan. Yet, audiences seem to think there's a comedic angle to explore. Online rumblings have pinned names such as Alan Carr, Rob Beckett, James Buckley, and even Jedward to Teeth, but the buzzing confusion hit its peak after their latest showing hinted at a feminine sound. Over the weekend, confounded fans expressed on X, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated, "Teeth is definitely a woman but who I have no idea. This is a toughie," while another speculated is a specific property of the proper particularly observant fans are betting that Wolf is actually Marti Pellow(Image: ITV)In week one, Wolf treated everyone to David Bowie's 'Let's Dance'. Week 2's performance of 'Copacabana (At the Copa)' by Barry Manilow brought some serious star power to the stage, with Wolf delivering a howlingly good show, complete with husky - no pure intended - vocals. According to the hints dropped, Wolf has embarked on a solo journey, describing his initial steps as an "opening gambit" that's leading him in the right direction. He's hinted at a connection to a "soap opera" and seems eager to prove he's "top of the food chain". The panel and audience are quite convinced that Wolf is a seasoned professional, throwing around names like Jason Donovan, Brendon Urie, Tony Hadley, and Gary Kemp as potential identities behind the mask. However, some particularly observant fans are betting that Wolf is actually Marti Pellow of Wet Wet fame. One confident fan declared on Reddit: "It is definitely him. I got the same feeling when Morten Harket did TMS a few years ago, I knew immediately," while another concurred, stating: "100% Marti Pellow. The most obvious in the history of the show."Could Wolf be hiding an 80s music legend or perhaps an Aussie soap star? We'll have to wait and see. The Masked Singer UK is available to watch on ITVX The Masked Singer returned last week (Image: ITV)The Masked Singer returned with a bang as 12 new celebrities took to the stage last week. The sixth series saw the debut of new characters - Teeth, Snail, Tattoo, Kingfisher, Spag Bol and Dressed Crab - who battled it out to remain in the competition. They were followed by Pufferfish, Bush, Wolf, Pegasus, Toad in the Hole and Bear during Sunday's episode (January 5). Host Joel Dommett was joined by judges Mo Gilligan, Davina McCall, Jonathan Ross and Rita Ora's replacement Maya Jama, who all attempted to work out which celebrity was behind the disguise using a number of clues. Spag Bowl was revealed as broadcaster Kate Garraway during the show's launch, while Great British Bake Off star Dame Prue Leith was behind the mask of Pegasus. But which stars are behind the other masks? Here, Express Online takes a look at the different possibilities. Teeth gave a thrilling first performance of Amarillo by Tony Christie and divided the panel over which person was tucked away behind the giant dentures. The character gave several hints about their identity, saying: "Wind me up and watch me go. I just can't stop! You can probably tell I'm a bit of a big mouth", adding: "Lads, lads, lad confessed to biting off more than they could chew. Binoculars were included in their VT and their riddle was: "I've been schooled in variety, I have lots in the mix, the way I perform knocks the audience for six." Those tipped to be behind the mask are This Morning star Rylan Clark, comedian Rob Beckett and footballer Alan Shearer and Alan Carr. Former England footballer Alex Scott was mentioned alongside boxer Nicola Adams. SnailSome believe Cheryl is behind the Snail mask (Image: ITV)Belting out Espresso by Sabrina Carpenter, Snail left the judges torn about their identity. They were convinced that several items in the VT, including a Welcome Home tag, an old school uniform, and a Chivalry & Etiquette book were hints at the identity of a singer. Snail's VT featured a Bridgerton-style opening as they began with: "Dearest gentle Masket, a tie and boater hat, two rings and the quote: "Are you wondering what scandalous secrets I might reveal?"After hearing Snail's set of clues. Daving predicted Emma Willis was wearing the costume while Jonathan speculated that it was Dame Mary Berry. Fans predicted that it was Dame Mary Berry. Fa Davies. Tattoo Tattoo left everyone puzzled about their identity. A Robin Hood hat appeared in their VT, as well as a rabbit with a horseshoe and a four-leaf clover. Meanwhile a framed photo of Natalie Appleton next to a fishnet stocking was featured. Tattoo could be heard saying: "I've always followed my heart when it comes to my career," while their riddle was: "If you want a tattoo, then you surely have heard, you can't beat a loved one with one special word." Daving suggested EastEnders star Jessie Wallace, guest judge Mo Farah mentioned Cheryl, while Love Island winner Ekin-Su Cülcüloğlu was also thrown into the mix. Emma Bunton was named amongst quesses once again as well as singer Paloma Faith. Kingfisher sang The Rainbow Connection from The Muppet Movie. The character's hints so far include an East End accent, dog treats, a blue fish, a net and a radio. There was also a tag with the name 'Harry' on it and a road map from A to B. Sharing more clues, Kingfisher quipped: "There's nothing better than a nice, relaxing day down by the water," adding: "I have caught a prince or two in my time." Their riddle was: "Fishing and planting, digging and mowing, to reap the rewards, you'd better get sowing." Guesses included former footballer and manager Harry Redknapp, Welsh actor Paul Whitehouse and broadcaster Alan Titchmarsh. Fans are convinced that children's TV star Simon Farnaby is the voice of Kingfisher, while others suggested Harry Hill.Dressed Crab Dressed Crab left the panel scratching their heads about who is behind the mask. Hinting at who they are, the character said: "Welcome to my world darlings, you like my aesthetic? I'm going for crab, dressed crab, it's a look that never goes out of fashion. Good style can make anybody feel like a somebody. "The character continued: "Just marvel at some of my creations, my work has lit up the UK." But I'm not just about the material things in life. I've scuttled all over the blue planet and now I'm here on The Masked Singer stage, ready to crab hold of the competition with both incisors."An American football helmet, gold coins, film roll and an NDA contract featured in Dressed Crab's VT.Billie Porter, Jamie Foxx, The Weeknd, Tom Daley, Gregory Porter were all amongst guesses.PufferfishWho is behind the Pufferfish mask? (Image: ITV)During the second episode, Pufferfish performed Chappell Roan's tune Good Luck, Babe!. Hints included a pair of dice that landed on a five and six, an American football, a rubber spider on a hairbrush and the line "The Empire State is just too hard to miss out on." Pufferfish added: "I'm a speedy learner and it runs in the family too" alongside their riddle: "Being puffed up all day can feel so excessive, sometimes being small is just as impressive. "The judges believe Pufferfish is someone that has a musical background as guesses included Britney Spears' younger sister Jamie-Lynn Spears, singer Alicia Keys, TV personality Kelly Osbourne and Loose Women star Stacey Solomon. BushBush performed Wake Up Boo by The Boo Radleys (Image: ITV)Bush made their debut during Sunday's episode and performed Wake Up Boo by The Boo Radleys. Bush dropped several clues ahead of their first appearance, revealing they are determined to show they aren't a "coward" and they like the outdoors and gardening. Bush also likes to "stage manage" where the plants go and holds a "Best Bush in Show" trophy. The character also shared the riddle: "I've been training for years, and there's no turning back. "Guest judge Vicky McClure suggested it could be Billie Piper or Stacey Solomon. Meanwhile fans believed EastEnders star Natalie Cassidy is disguised as Bush. WolfWolf's VT featured a bishop and imagery of multi-coloured bowling pins and a bal (Image: ITV)Fans have been speculating who is behind the mask of Wolf since they performed the David Bowie hit Let's Dance. A number of clues about Wolf's identity have been given, including a T-shirt with "Wolf Pack" written on it, mentions of "good foundations" keeping a roof over your head. Featured in the VT was a bishop and imagery of multi-coloured bowling pins and a ball. Sharing another hint, Wolf said: "You wanna know more about little old me, if the three little pigs had listened to my advice no huffing or puffing would ve blown those houses down." Their riddle was: "As a wolf, I've held dominion over everything I see, wild woods, creek or cave, that's my territory. "Maya guessed Wolf's identity as Location, Location host Phil Spencer, while Jonathan shared three big names; actor David Tennant, Neighbours star Jason Donovan, and musician Paul Weller. Many fans believed Wet Wet frontman Marti Pellow is behind the disguise, while others think it could be Martin Fry. Toad in the Hole sang a rendition of the Amy Winehouse hit Valerie (Image: ITV)Toad in the Hole sang a rendition of Amy Winehouse's Valerie, with the judges complementing their "beautiful voice". Although they could agree on Toad's stellar performance, they didn't share the same opinions of who was behind the elaborate disguise. Toad guipped: "Plenty of me to go around. I'm very versatile and I'm ready to show everyone on The Masked Singer. Always wanted to write my own destiny". The word "sizzle" was shown in their VT, while their riddle was: "Sometimes there are masses of people to feed, so I get extra help, my priority is speed. "Guesses included Olympic gold medallist Jessica Ennis-Hill, ex-radio 1 DJ Annie Mac and American R&B and soul singer Macy Gray, who appeared on The Masked Singer US in 2023. Bear could Gordon Ramsay be hiding behind the Bear mask? (Image: ITV) Wearing an incredible disguise, Bear sang a cover of 'You've Got to Pick a Pocket or Two' from the musical Oliver! The character immediately hinted at a background in theatre, with several references to performing and good luck wishes included in their VTs like a horseshoe and "break a leg" sign. Bear quipped: "The stage is set, the audience awaits, and I am hungry for the competition" before revealing they were in the West End as a "cub". A number of globes featured in their VT as well as a coffee cup. Their riddle was: "I'm walking the stage and displaying my toil, but I'm also at home amongst flowers and soil." Bear made a point of saying they hope to "avoid a comedy of errors", prompting Mo to suggest comedian Tom Davis. Star Trek actor Patrick Stewart's name was also thrown into the ring, while others speculated that it could be TV chef Gordon Ramsay. Other suggestions included I'm A Celebrity winner Christopher Biggins and Gardeners' World host Monty Don.

http://machulski.com/public/file/kovipotuw.pdf

wacaheviyixobize

navapahune

http://trangiabach.com/media/ftp/file/74180995195.pdf https://fullhousetourism.com/UploadFiles/file/20250718232622185.pdf http://chusei.net/userfiles/files/68260293351.pdf http://medical-1669.com/userfiles/files/87637804709.pdf are boar brushes good for fine hair nostalgia snow cone maker how to turn on what is mind mapping in project management