Having a Serving it Right certificate is necessary for those applying to work in restaurant/pub settings that serve alcohol. The Serving It Right program was initiated during a provincial liquor policy review in 1987. During the review’s public hearings, representatives from virtually all types of licensed establishments requested a mandatory responsible beverage service (RBS) program for BC. More than 20 similar public and private sector programs were reviewed in order to develop the original program. Serving It Right differed from these other programs in that it was a joint initiative of both the Liquor Control and Licensing Branch and the hospitality industry. What is Serving It Right (SIR)? Serving It Right (SIR) British Columbia’s B.C.’s Responsible Beverage Service Program. Serving It Right, Special Event Server, and Selling It Right are British Columbia’s mandatory self-study courses that educate licensees, permittees, managers, and servers about their legal responsibilities when serving and selling liquor and selling cannabis. Serving It Right (SIR) is British Columbia’s responsible liquor sales and service program for industry workers that everyone involved in the sale and service of liquor has to take. It is designed to help make sure that the service and sale of liquor are done according to law and in a way that keeps customers, guests, and others safe from alcohol-related harms. The course provides effective techniques to prevent problems related to the service of liquor.
