Arturo was our waiter and we had exceptional service! He was very informative on the menu and was very attentive. Great experience! Great Sanbdwich and a Cold BeerGreat neighborhood pub. Friendly bar staff and one of the best Cheese Steak Sandwiches in SD. A good assortment of cold beers on tap. Simple straightforward classic spot for a cold one. Try the fried Mac N Cheese! Chill place that is more a bar with food during certain hours. We went too late to get warm food, except for the awesome Fried MacNCheese. They had great sandwiches and Guinness was only like $4 at happy hour! Would definitely go again! Also, check out the Aerial Classes at Volare, right across the street! We came here for football Sunday to watch the Redskins Game because we were told they were Redskins friendly but also welcoming to other teams. They only serve beer and wine but have a restaurant attached with bar food available. They claim to have the best cheese steaks but we did not try them. We had tots, Wings and jalapeo poppers. Cool atmosphere. Pool table as well. Loved the place. It is a great little locals place with friendly people and a convenient location. Paige the bartender is the best! She knows all about the area of Pacific Beach, and will guide you with things to do and see, if you ask. The food was very good and priced reasonably Since we were visiting from the east coast, it was really fun because the tvs play Eagles football games on one side of the bar and west coast games on the left side. Latitude 32 in Pacific Beach is a very fun hole in the wall beach dive bar... That just so happens to make probably the very best East Coast Warm Hoagie Sub Sandwich in the world. They actually bring in the bread Fresh from the East Coast. Latitude 32 is a bar and grill. We went for lunch and were surprised that the bar and the food are separate ordering location inside and separate billing! The place has a big Philly theme with Eagles, 76ers, Phillies photos and stuff on the wall. Their claim to fame on the food side is of course their cheese steak. I tried it and its pretty good but not spectacular. They have a good selection of beer on the bar side. It is a bar so its 21 & over only for entring. I was there with my girlfriend and her sisters who live close by. It was my girlf's 21st birthday when Willie seen her ID he gave her a free pitcher of beer! Place has a really cool vibe about it.We just kind of wandered into this place. The subs were very good and the sub bread was surprisingly good. This place was also a Redskins bar! Very excited to find that 3,000 miles from home. I would go there again on my next visit.Neighborhood Pub with Welcoming VibeSometimes it's hard to find a more relaxed/divey place to hang out and get some cheap grub in PB without there being a million people around (Cass St Bar & Grill is great, but still drags in a lot of the excess from Garnet Ave.). Latitude has an unassuming outer appearance and a slight resemblance to "Cheers." The bartender (Dale) was a nice guy and although you could tell it was a total locals hangout, he was happy to have a conversation with us. The cook was also helpful and the cheesesteak, which they are known for, lives up to its Philly roots. Embracing the eclectic vibe of San Diego, patrons can add the flare of their choice (extra cheese whiz, pizza, chicken etc.) or opt for the classic. The tap selection was around 10 beers, but quite the variety, from local favorites to Magic Hat. It's very obvious it's an Eagles v. Redskins sports bar, with a line across the middle. There's one pool table, one dart board and a few people to give you good recs on where to go/what to do. Good food. Try the philly cheeses steaks. Good happy hour. Friendly people. Not a bad place to be able to walk too.
